

RHA Information Forum

Wednesday, 02 March 2016

It has come to our attention that information on our web page has become fragmented and hard to follow. In order to try and fix this problem we have created a forum board where all information will be posted. The forum is located at the following web address.

<http://rhassn.us/memberinfo/index.php>

All of the information posted there will be visible without the need to log in, however if you want to interact with the board you will need to register for a logon.